Five Perish in Area Blazes; BCI Called on Two in County

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.,
Freeman Staff Writer

Five area residents lost their lives in weekend fires including four persons who perished in a $5,000 house blaze in the Sullivan County community of Summitville, and a Dutchess County man who died of asphyxiation and incineration in flames that destroyed his trailer home.

Two of Several
The fires were two of several that occurred in the area. Two fires that destroyed properties owned by former Ulster County Sheriff Howard Anderson at Accord and Kerhonkson are under investigation by authorities because of evidence of incendiaryism. Ulster Hose Company were called out twice.

State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers have been called in to assist fire officials investigate the two fires in southern Ulster County.

Three Others Escape
A fatal fire at Summitville at 9 a. m. Sunday destroyed a two-story frame house on Old Stone Crusher Road in that community and claimed four lives. Three other occupants of the house were saved by leaving the burning residence through a ground floor bedroom window.

Sullivan County Coroner Ralph Breakey of Monticello gave a finding of accidental deaths due to smoke inhalation and third degree burns.

Trooper David Wachtel said Lt. A. F. Van Blarcom and Senior BCI Investigator Frank Steiner directed the investigation of the blaze with fire officials and uniformed troopers from Ferndale barracks.

The dead were: Mrs. Mary Coon, 49; John Coon, 62; Michael

Robert Hutchison, 2, and Diana Lee Hutchison, two months. Rescued were Veronica Hutchison Coon, 6 months; Deborah Sosa, 8, and Catherine Hutchison, 21, all of Summitville.

Blame Overheated Stove
Troopers reported the fire apparently was caused by an overheated wood stove in the kitchen near a first floor bedroom. Flames spread rapidly through the frame residence trapping the four victims who were in one bedroom on the second floor.

The house was owned by one of the victims, John Coon, authorities said.

A 51-year-old Dutchess County man perished in an early Sunday morning fire that destroyed his house-trailer on South Avenue, Pleasant Valley. He was identified by Sergeant Hugh Brennan of the sheriff's office as Earl Campbell, who lived alone in the trailer.

Brennan told The Freeman that a passing motorist discovered the fire shortly before 2 a. m. Sunday and notified the Pleasant Valley and Salt Point Fire Companies who responded in charge of Assistant Chief Joseph Roberts.

After the flames were quelled by the firefighters, the incinerated body was taken from the debris to a funeral parlor.

Cause Not Determined

Dr. William G. Thompson, Rhinebeck, assistant county medical examiner, said Campbell died of asphyxiation due to smoke inhalation and incineration. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined, but authorities believe the blaze originated near a space heater.

Two barns, a shed and a silo were swept by fire of undetermined origin early Sunday on the former Herbert Small property owned by Howard Anderson, former sheriff of Ulster County on Berne Road, Kerhonkson.

Completely Engulfed
Fire Chief Emanuel Samuels told The Freeman that when firemen arrived in a response to an alarm at 3:15 a. m. they found the frame buildings completely engulfed in flames. Firemen numbering more than 23 poured water on the large stone house and other frame buildings not involved in the fire and saved them.

Two firemen were treated after cinders entered their eyes, the chief said. They were Volunteers Walter Yeager and Charles Murtz. During the height of the fire Chief Samuels summoned Wawarsing fire units to cover up. He learned that Accord Fire Company had responded to another mutual aid alarm.

Anderson, owner of the buildings, according to Samuels, had recently purchased the property and the barns involved in the fire were under renovation. A large amount of new machinery owned by Anderson was stored in the barns that were destroyed.

Plagued by Allergy? Articles May Help

Allergy, the bane of millions of Americans' existence, is explored in depth in an outstanding new series. The 18-part series, "Allergies—Your Personal Poisons," will appear in The Freeman beginning Tuesday. It is based on the authoritative book, "Allergy," prepared by The Allergy Foundation of America.

Area traffic accidents over the weekend claimed the lives of three persons, including a saugerties woman fatally injured in an accident on Route 212, and a Dutchess County man and his grandson, killed when a railroad engine plowed into their car on a crossing in Poughkeepsie.

The train crew included an engineer from New Paltz and a conductor and signalman who reside in Maybrook.

State Police and the Sheriff's Office investigated several personal injury accidents, some caused by icy pavements.

Seventh 1967 Victim

The Saugerties woman was Ulster County's seventh highway fatality of 1967 and the fourth resident of that community killed in motor vehicle accidents in the county this year. The seventh highway fatality in 1966 occurred on Jan. 10 when a Woodstock man was killed as his car slammed into a tree on Route 375 near Woodstock.

Fatally injured was Mrs. Dolores V. Hayes, 39, of 100 Washington Avenue, Saugerties. She was the wife of Ralph V. Hayes and is also survived by one daughter, Susan, age 9; one son, J. Terry, 13; and her mother, Mrs. George Maloney, Brooklyn. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday, from the Saugerties Reformed Church. Burial will be in Mt. View Cemetery. Friends may call at the Hartley and Lamoreaux Funeral Home, Main and Second Streets, Saugerties, today from 7 to 9 p. m. and Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

26 State Deaths

The three area deaths were among 26 who perished accidentally in New York State over the weekend, according to the Associated Press.

Sixteen lost their lives in traffic mishaps and 10 in fires, the AP report said.

Mrs. Hayes was injured fatally at 3:20 a. m. Sunday when a car driven by her husband slid out of control on snow on Route 212 about six miles west of Route 32, Town of Saugerties, and slammed into a tree.

Was Driving East
Kingston State Trooper C. E. McKilligan said Mrs. Hayes was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital. Her husband was treated at the hospital for lacerations of the head, back injuries and multiple abrasions and other injuries of the body.

Cropper Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties, troopers said, reported Mrs. Hayes died of a ruptured hemorrhaging due to a crushed chest.

According to an investigation by Troopers J. S. Allidi and J. J. Braihard, Hayes was driving east on Route 212 when he lost control of the vehicle as it slid on snow-covered pavement.

The car crossed the highway and hit a tree. The occupants of the vehicle were rushed to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance Service.

Shortly after the fatal accident occurred another mishap happened at the same scene, troopers said. Mr. Killigan said cars operated by Mitchell Strongman, 29, of South Lake Avenue, Albany and Nicholas Olivett, of Saugerties were involved in the accident. Olivett told troopers he had stopped at the scene of the fatal mishap and Strongman's car was unable to stop and the vehicles were in collision.

Jack Scerbo, 23, of Mechanicville, a passenger in the Strongman car sustained minor lacerations of the forehead.

Two persons were fatally injured Saturday afternoon when the car in which they were riding (Continued on Page 10, Col. 1)

Draft - At - A - Glance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here at a glance is how the military draft will operate under plans announced by President Johnson today.

Age of induction: 19-year-olds first with sharply decreased chance of being drafted for anyone who gets past that year.

Selection: By random chance from a national pool of those classified 1A after physical, mental and moral tests.

Deferments: Ending for fathers, most graduate students and those in essential occupations. Continuing for those with family hardship and those studying for physician or dentist degrees. No decision on college undergraduates.

Reservists: No draft deferment unless man is needed for a specific reserve unit vacancy; youths between 17 and minimum draft age of 18½ will get priority for reserve enlistment.

When this happens: By Jan. 1, 1969 at the latest, assuming Congress extends the basic draft law as requested.

Why it happens: "Continuation of the draft is still essential to our national security. Inequities do result from present selection policies," says the President.

Hit Oil Dumps Near Haiphong

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes bombed a petroleum installation 12 to 14 miles south of Haiphong Sunday in the closest raid in weeks to North Vietnam's chief port.

A U.S. spokesman reported a secondary explosion was set off in the raid on the Do San depot, the highpoint of a day of air attacks against the North hampered by worsening weather. Air Force and Navy planes flew only 69 strike and armed reconnaissance missions.

Mine Kills 37
In South Vietnam, a Viet Cong mine exploded under a bus 40 miles northwest of Saigon, killing 37 civilians and wounding 15, and the U.S. Command announced that 24 Americans were killed, 78 were wounded and four were missing in war operations in the past 48 hours. Six U.S. Army and Marine helicopters were reported downed by enemy fire.

A total of 46 enemy dead was reported by U.S. forces. U.S. authorities announced that two U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jets were responsible for the accidental bombing Thursday of the refugee-packed Montagnard village of Lang Vei.

8 Die in Copter
But eight of the Americans were killed in Binh Dinh Province, about 300 miles northeast of Saigon, when enemy fire brought down a large CH47 chopper. The aircraft was badly damaged.

The Viet Cong continued using their mortars in South Vietnam, hurling 100 rounds of 81mm and 60mm shells against a company from the U.S. 25th Infantry Division north of Tay Ninh, and dropping 30 to 35 rounds on the U.S. Marine jet airfield at Chu Lai, south of Da Nang. Twenty Americans were wounded in the first attack and seven in the second. Light damage was reported to jet aircraft at Chu Lai.

Viet Cong mortarmen also shelled a Vietnamese village near Chau Doc, at the edge of the Mekong Delta, killing one civilian and wounding 22 others, a Vietnamese spokesman said.

Ulster Slates Red Tag Sales At Plaza Stores

Red Tag Days Sale, scheduled Tuesday, March 7 until Saturday night, March 11, promises some great buys for shoppers at the Ulster Shopping Plaza.

All members of the Ulster Plaza Merchants Association are participating in the first big spring sale which will be held on an annual basis.

A special tabloid section, appearing in Tuesday's edition of The Freeman, will feature extra special values of each business establishment.

Advertisements elsewhere in the tabloid indicate merchants have made special purchases or have taken big markdowns to offer excellent values.

LBJ Sidesteps Decision About Some Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told Congress today he will order younger men drafted first under a lottery-type system as part of an overhaul of Selective Service.

His announcement of actions to come within two years — mostly without need of congressional approval — follows months of study and controversy over the nation's draft system.

Deferments Out for Some
The President said deferments for fathers, men with essential occupations and most graduate students will be ended.

But in a special draft message sent from the Texas White House, he postponed indefinitely a politically touchy decision on whether to end undergraduate student deferments. Family hardship deferments will be continued, Johnson said.

He asked Congress to extend for four years the draft law expiring June 30.

He made it clear that some features of the revised draft system he has in mind won't be adopted for months — perhaps not until 1969.

Johnson shied away from total endorsement of recommendations made to him by a 20-member advisory commission in a report released Saturday.

Although a commission majority urged an end to all student deferments, Johnson asserted that "an issue so deeply important, with so many compelling factors on both sides, cannot be decided until its every aspect has been thoroughly explored."

He did not indicate when he might make up his mind on this topic.

To Study Boards
The President also sidestepped, at least for the time being, a commission recommendation that the nation's 4,100 local draft boards be whittled down to a few hundred. He ordered a management study on that.

For draft-eligible men, the big news was that months may pass before they'll find out exactly where they stand.

Once the new format takes effect, however, draftees will be mostly 19-year-olds selected by lot. Young men will be most vulnerable to the draft for only one year. If they get through that year without putting on a uniform, they'll probably escape military service altogether, barring a big increase in manpower requirements.

The four-engine DC8 jetliner of Varig Airlines plunged into a house two miles short of the runway while attempting to land in a fog. It left Beirut Saturday night and stood in Rome before heading for Monrovia and Brazil.

The surviving U.S. serviceman was identified as Spec. 4 James A. Brown, on 30-day leave from the U.S. Army 3rd Hospital in Vietnam. His mother lives in Sao Paulo, Brazil, the hospital said.

Two widely separated plane crashes Sunday night claimed the lives of 91 persons including 39 Americans.

A jet liner with 89 persons aboard crashed into a house while attempting to land in dense fog in Monrovia, Liberia, according to an Associated Press report. Fifty-three persons died in that crash, including six persons in the house.

Kenton, Ohio was the scene of the other fatal crash which saw 38 persons lose their lives after a Convair turbo-prop plane apparently exploded in mid-air, crashed in an open field. There were no survivors in that wreck.

According to the Associated Press

Wreckage from the Convair turboprop plane was scattered over snow-covered farm fields near Mansfield, a town of 170 residents in northwest Ohio.

About 150 officers and volunteers probed through snow and ankle-deep mud for the bodies, most of them found in a bean field where the main part of the fuselage fell.

Unused School Morgue

The bodies were hauled in tractor-pulled farm wagons to a temporary morgue in an unused elementary school.

Investigating teams from the airline headquarters in Indianapolis and the Civil Aeronautics Board moved in to probe for the cause of the first major domestic air tragedy since a crash Aug. 6, 1966, near Falls City, Neb., took 42 lives.

The plane's flight recorder was recovered intact. An American serviceman on

Business, Labor Join Forces in Sharp Attack On Governor's Compulsory Health Insurance

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Spokesmen for business and labor joined forces today in a sharp attack on the compulsory health insurance plan espoused by Gov. Rockefeller and the Legislature's leaders.

Raymond R. Corbett, president of the State AFL-CIO, blasted the proposal as a "transparent political device to take our state administration off the hook" on rising Medicaid costs.

John J. Roberts, executive vice president of the Empire State Chamber of Commerce, argued that the state should cut back Medicaid eligibility levels instead of trying to trim costs by requiring employers to provide health coverage for their workers.

Their remarks were prepared for the first public hearing on the insurance plan, conducted by the Joint Legislative Committee on Public Health and Medicare. Other sessions are to be held later this month in Buffalo, New York and Syracuse.

The comments by Corbett and Roberts carried forward the active opposition that arose as soon as the plan was unveiled last month. It has prompted legislative leaders to conclude that no attempt should be made to enact a compulsory insurance law until next year. Meanwhile, the plan is being put to public scrutiny.

As proposed by Rockefeller and the leaders, all employers in this state with more than two workers on the payroll would have to contract with private insurance plans to provide a prescribed minimum of health and hospital benefits. The premium costs would be split between the employer and employee.

Rockefeller has estimated that the step would save $210 million a year in Medicaid costs.

Corbett said the legislation should not be called the "Health Insurance Benefits Law" but the "Insurance Companies Benefits Law" because, he maintained, it would "create a new multi-million-dollar windfall profit for the insurance industry."

Among other things, he also objected that the plan would exclude about 2,374,000 domestic and farm workers, part-time workers and employees of concerns with fewer than three persons on the payroll.

Roberts noted that advocates of the plan had estimated that New York employers would have to pay $145 million more annually in insurance premiums to provide the coverage.

This, he said, "will certainly make New York State even less competitive and less attractive to industry than it is now."

He pointed out also that the Empire Chamber always had believed that the Medicaid program was too generous in its concept and thus too costly.

But, he said, "We think it would be far simpler and far more effective to cut back the eligibility for Medicaid than attempt to accomplish the same purpose in roundabout fashion."

Roberts said that, of the approximately eight million workers in this state, only about 400,000 now had no insurance coverage. He said the present, voluntary system was making great strides that were "carrying us surely to the goal of coverage for all."

The booklet presents profiles of more than 20 hospital based careers, contains some 25 photographs showing hospital people at work and is written for the 17 to 27 age group. The booklet should have general interest also since it helps to tell the hospital cost story and shows the dynamic growth of hospital capabilities and services.

The booklet will be distributed in quantity to school guidance counselors and science teachers. Copies will also be available from hospital and other health field recruiters.

Views Are Given On Mini Skirts Worn in Vietnam

By JOHN NANCE

SAIGON (AP) — You don't see many miniskirts in Saigon, but when you do they look mighty mini.

The traditional dress in Vietnam is the ao dai with high neckline, long sleeves and pantalons to the shoetons. The ao dai covers up everything.

In the midst of all that, the mini looks like a bikini at a full dress ball.

When honey blonde and shapely American entertainer Chris Noel pranced in her miniskirt through Saigons' Central Market, the eyes of the fish peddlers nearly popped into their bass baskets.

It isn't that the mini is so terribly much more sexy. The ao dai, although it covers a lot, has plenty going for it. The mini has novelty appeal and foreign flavor, besides what it does for the shapely.

A serious young Vietnamese lawyer reflects the thinking of the traditionalists. "I sometimes like to see the miniskirt, but I certainly wouldn't want my girl friend to wear one. The ao dai is much better, more discreet. The miniskirt is just a fad."

An attractive secretary has another view. "I was shocked when I first saw a miniskirt four or five months ago, but now I think they're great," she said. "It's the new style. I'd love to wear one, except everyone in my office would make fun."

"What I have done, though, is shorten the hem on a couple of my European dresses. Every week I take them up another inch or so — now they come just above the knee. My mother hasn't noticed yet, but I don't think I can go much higher."

Stock Market Charts Have Special Meanings to Many

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Gaze long enough at the jagged lines of a stock trend chart and you may see emerge from it flags, pennants, saucers, triangles, heads, shoulders — all traced magically in up-down lines.

All these have meaning, at least to a growing multitude of Americans who either buy these charts from publishers or meticulously maintain their own in hopes that a message will emerge from them.

Special Meanings

The odd shapes that chartists find in their tracings have come to take on specific meanings, based on events that followed identical formations in past years. These meanings are projected into the future as signals to buy, sell or hold.

Charts can be kept on single stocks or on the stock market as a whole — based on averages. Some chartists graph the performance of the mutual funds, the small investors, the short sellers — and find signals there also.

The charting process is simple. The interpretation is the art.

To begin, the chartist lists the days, week, months or years across the base of a sheet of graph paper. Up the side of the graph go the numerals. And on this chart is traced a line indi-

There is a public misimpression that Jiler and others are something like astrologers. This they correctly but sometimes futilely deny. The shapes that form in their charts, they maintain, represent graphically the mass psychology of buyers and sellers. These lines are nothing more than their trails.

Thus a flag or a saucer or a triangle has no significance in itself. It is not a strange and mystic portent, but a design that appears and reappears based on the activity of buyers and sellers.

Studying such patterns in the past, the chartist finds that certain shapes recur before certain events. Based on this knowledge he forecasts the future.

Cannot Foresee

The weakness of the charts is that they cannot foresee unexpected dynamic events, such as the very tight money that helped deepen last year's decline. Sometimes also the charts betray their keepers for no apparent reason. And even the best charts are destroyed in "tidal wave" actions of the market.

Recognizing these limitations, Jiler's first rule is that "when a stock is found to be following a given trend line it is more likely to continue moving along that line than not to."

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

Today's stock market is dominated by two powerful forces: inflation and the desire for profits. And those forces are correlated.

In the endeavor to protect the buying power of the dollar, investors are purchasing common stocks in the hope that they will advance in price. Likewise, they are trading in equities rather furiously, trying to make a "buck" or two. Nineteen sixty-seven is somewhat like 1927-8-9 in this respect.

There are compelling reasons for these happenings. As this column has been emphasizing for a long time, overall costs of living have been rising. Millions of people whose incomes are stable have been caught in an economic vortex.

In New York City, for instance, where rent controls have been in effect for many years, a battle is on to lift these controls. Real estate taxes have gone up, wages have advanced and general costs have been spiraling. Without doubt, thousands of so-called luxury apartments should command higher rents.

Fifty dollars a month more means $600 a year to thousands of middle-class families that today are having a hard time to make ends meet. And if rent controls are abandoned, speculation will be encouraged. In fact, to my personal knowledge, a lot of such activity is going on right now.

The desire for profits is also growing in the country. People are taking chances who can't afford to do so. Speculation in stocks, regardless of its success or failure, can inculcate bad habits.

If a speculator is successful, it may make him bold and careless. And in such a frame of mind, he may risk more savings than he should. If he fails as a risk-taker, he may become a stock gambler.

Today, before an investor decides to start speculating, he should ask himself two questions: 1) can I afford to take chances and 2) if I can, how much of my money should I speculate with and in what kind of stocks?

These are unprecedented times. The country is flooded with inflationary dollars which are losing their purchasing power. Conditions in 1967 are entirely different from what they were in 1927-28-29 when America experienced a three-year-long speculative binge. Today there is more than 1,000 per cent more money in the country than there was 40 years ago.

This week I talked in New York City with a leading world banker.

Probably before this article appears, Congress will have lifted the ceiling on the federal debt. The ceiling stands at this moment at $330,000,000,000. It will be lifted by at least $5 billions.

And with the U. S. Government's fiscal year starting on July 1, 1967, another hike in the federal debt will be required. More debt, when monetized by America's commercial banking system, means more inflationary dollars in the country and the deterioration of the buying power of the dollar sets in motion a lot of forces that push prices, wages, costs and taxes higher and higher.

My banker friend and I talked about these matters for an hour. Where will stock prices go eventually? High, high.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 6, the 65th day of 1967. There are 300 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1836, after besieging the Alamo for nearly two weeks, the Mexican forces Santa Anna breached a wall of the old mission with artillery fire and made their final attack. The Mexicans massacred the entire garrison including William Travis, Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie.

On this date:

In 1475, the Italian master, Michelangelo, was born.

In 1806, English poet Elizabeth Barrett Browning was born.

In 1945, Cologne, one of Germany's largest cities, fell to the U.S. 1st Army.

In 1946, the Department of Justice asked a Senate committee to increase the penalties for spying to help safeguard the secret of the atomic bomb.

In 1947, the House of Representatives voted to restore Herbert Hoover's name to Boulder Dam.

Ten years ago—The merged former British colonies of the Gold Coast and British Togoland became the independent nation of Ghana and the ninth member of the British Commonwealth.

Five years ago—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev warned President John F. Kennedy that if the U.S. resumed nuclear tests in the atmosphere, the Russians would follow suit.

One year ago—The U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. William Westmoreland, reported more than four enemy battalions had been destroyed within the past few days in South Vietnam. He said: "I could not be prouder of the U.S. fighting man."

THE BROADER QUESTION

The worst aspects of Representative Adam Clayton Powell's conduct over the past several years are, quite simply, indefensible. He has been in contempt of courts; he has improperly kept his wife on his payroll and appropriated her paychecks; he has used committee funds for personal expenses. Such behavior cannot be condoned.

The question remains, however, whether the House of Representatives acted wisely when it denied Powell his seat and rejected the select committee's recommendations which would have stripped him of seniority; required payment of $40,000 to be deducted from his salary and subjected him to humiliation of censure. This is one of the toughest penalties in congressional history.

Has Congress exposed itself to charges of having made Powell a sacrificial goat to divert public attention from the broader question of congressional ethics in general.

The public attention may not be diverted. The public may now ask if the House is going to ask for a reckoning from all other committee chairmen.

The public also may ask: Is the House of Representatives going to use the Powell case as a springboard for enactment of a firm code of congressional ethics, or is it merely going to punish one malefactor in hopes that the matter will then be forgotten?

The House now should name a permanent committee on ethics and adopt a code which will be enforced.

CONANT'S SCHOOL RECIPE

Ten years after his study of the nation's public high schools, which triggered a nationwide reform movement, Dr. James Bryant Conant finds there is still much to be done to provide equal school opportunity to the nation's youth.

His second study found only one in ten schools now measure up to his original criteria, though many have shown some improvement. Differences in the quality of educational content from state to state and from district to district was still far too great.

Stating that "inadequate financing spells an unsatisfactory school," Conant said that in some states school districts received more than two-thirds of their funds from the state, while in others the figure might be as low as six per cent. Also, the accidents of shifts in population and industry may dramatically change taxable resources, so that what one board can afford is out of the question for its neighbor.

For these and other reasons, Conant suggests that schools be wholly financed by states and that a portion of federal income taxes be allotted to the states to be spent for education as each state sees fit. Then with equality in financing, there should be equality of educational opportunity for all students the country over.

In that case, Conant has a formula for each high school to meet. His criteria would include: Instruction in calculus; instruction in a modern language for four years; schedules to allow a student to study in any one year English, mathematics, science, a foreign language, social studies, physical education, art or music; one or more college level courses for able students; and a pupil load of fewer than 120 for each English teacher.

Boards of education will probably welcome federal support of state financing. Then they could undertake to satisfy Conant's five criteria to enable every student to get an equally adequate secondary education.

BAD NEWS MARKET CAVE-IN

The stock market caved in at the start of this week, taking the worst beating it had since Nov. 21 last. An accumulation of bad news was blamed for the slump. Triggering it was the hearty endorsement by the AFL-CIO Executive Council of sky-is-the-limit wage demands in collective bargaining talks this year.

Technical factors in the bad news that drove the market down included the virtual disappearance of railroad equipment orders, a steep decline in machine tool orders, a deepening of the automobile sales slump and a respite of a pending slump in

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN THE NEW POWER IN THE BAHAMAS

Nassau, Bahamas: — One after another the "islands in the sun" to the south of the U.S. come into the news. They are all special cases culturally, yet they are one case economically: they all need the north in order to make a living.

Knowledge of this can breed great and sometimes stupid defiance, as in the instance of Cuba's Castro, or it can breed venality, as the histories of Haiti and the Dominican Republic amply prove. It can also breed a magnificent dexterity, as Luis Munoz Marin has shown in his maneuvers to combine pragmatism and self-respect in his conduct of "Operation Bootstrap" in Puerto Rico.

Last week the first Negro Premier of the Bahamas, Lynden O. Pindling, made a lightning trip to New York City, where the press did its best to put him on the spot (a) about his relations with Adam Clayton Powell and (b) about casino gambling. He proved he was Luis Munoz Marin's peer in dexterity. His fencing with hostile reporters showed perfect preparation and perfect aplomb. As a lawyer he had helped incorporate Huff Enterprises, Limited, which owns a certain parcel of land and a house on the island of Bimini in which Powell spends some of his time. Since there must be five incorporators to conform to Bahamian law, and since it is appropriate to have a legal adviser among the five if only to take care of proper filing, Pindling took one share of stock in the Huff concern. The new Bahamian Premier had anticipated the question and he fielded it without flaw. He didn't sound as if he stood to make a nickel outside of legal fees for any connection with Powell.

His aplomb remained unruffled through all the questioning about gambling concessions in his islands. The concessions had been granted by a predecessor government. There would be a high-level investigation of the casino corruption charges, by an outside United Kingdom commission. Appropriate action would be based on the commissions findings.

So that was that. But what manner of man resides under the bland and infinitely clever exterior of the new Premier in the Bahamas? In an interview with Mr. Pindling in his office above the docks and the straw market of Rawson Square in Nassau, this reporter got on the subject of baseball. Pindling, as it turned out, is a fan. He is also a friend of Jackie Robinson, who broke the color line in the U.S. major leagues. Pindling had followed Robinson's first year in the majors with microscopic attention. "Yes," he said, "I remember when Jackie was spiked by Red Schoendienst."

The observation was made blandly. But Pindling was obviously laying it on the line: he was saying by indirection that he insists upon racial self-respect. If he and his party—which holds office by the margin of a single vote in the legislature—are permitted to keep this respect, things should go smooth in the Bahamas.

I asked Mr. Pindling if he was worried about "too much foreign capital" in his islands. The answer came with a lawyer's precision. "When you say 'too much,'" he observed, "you imply that we have reached the point where we have had enough. We haven't had enough, so how at this time can we have had too much?"

The Bahamas are bustling with new projects involving importation of capital, and Mr. Pindling does not propose to rock the boat. The small native population of the islands—338,000 in all, which is about the same number of people that live in a small U.S. city—could use more schools and better hospitals, and they could profit from an upgrading in job skills. But there should be little difficulty in providing a tax system to take care of the small number of permanent residents of the Bahamas without scaring investors away by taxing either income or capital gains. It is employment that matters in the islands, and Pindling knows it.

Things of course could change. The balance of power between Pindling's Progressive Liberal Party and the United Bahamian Party of the old "Bay Street boys" is held by the single representation of a third grouping, Randol Fawkes of the Labor Party. Mr. Fawkes could throw the government into a new election over night. But, in so doing, he would be dissolving his own power. So Pindling doesn't really have any great worries about Fawkes.

The Bahamian change, then, seems more likely to be an evolution rather than a revolution. And the U.S. can breathe at least a qualified sigh of relief when looking to the safety of its south-eastern flank.

Horseplay May Have Harmful Repercussions

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Horseplay sounds like good clean fun but is it? The laughter of the practical joker who goes around pulling the chair or the rug from under his playmates all too often turns to chagrin.

Although the perpetrator means to cause no serious harm, horseplay has a way of backfiring. I would now suggest that it will ever be possible to eliminate horseplay from the normal growing up of children, especially boys, who have a great need to burn up excess energy and relieve natural tensions.

Missiles propelled by a rubber band in a schoolroom, paper airplanes with pins taped to their beaks and thumb tacks sent sailing across a room with a snap of a finger may be a source of boundless amusement until they connect with another child's eye. Even throwing a snowball at the back of another child's head can have tragic repercussions if the intended victim suddenly whirls around and catches the snowball with his eye. One such bit of misfired horseplay is enough to impress a much-needed lesson on the prankster—but what a price to pay!

Since the urge to indulge in horseplay is no more likely to be eliminated than the occasional urge to eat too much or to stay up too late, how can its effects be minimized? Try to teach your child to think before he acts. What might be an acceptable prank on dad must be absolutely forbidden if dad happens to be shaving or driving a car. And a bit of tomfoolery that might make mom laugh could be entirely inappropriate if she is peeling potatoes or lifting a steaming roast out of the oven.

Q—My son has Osmond-Schlatter's disease in his knees. What causes it? Can it affect any other joints? What can be done for him?

A—This disease, also called osteochondritis of the knee, is fairly common in children between five and 14 years of age. The cause is unknown. In this disease the bones and cartilage in the growth center of the bones near the joint become inflamed. A similar condition in the hip is called Perthes' disease.

Your son should wear a brace or some other form of support to prevent his bearing any weight on the involved joint. This relieves the pain and prevents deformity. No other treatment is needed, and when your son has achieved his full growth the condition will clear up completely.

aluminum sales. Furthermore, U.S. Corporations this month plan to raise $1.5 billion for new plants and equipment. As this sum will be mostly in debt issues, investors will be given an alternative to the turbulent market.

Every time the market edges along cautiously trying to recover from the losses of the last several months, it gets a severe blow back. It is most discouraging for the many who have faith in the market and want to see it come back. The day will come when they will be rewarded for their confidence, but in the meantime they must be pretty sturdy to withstand all the setbacks.

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT Washington Correspondent Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) Several western Republican leaders who were cool to Michigan Gov. George Romney's representatives at a recent party meeting in New Orleans are described by knowledgeable sources as having been "very warm" toward Romney himself on his 8,300-mile western swing.

Traditional western hospitality should perhaps discount some of the change. But checks with party men in the states he visited — Washington, Alaska, Utah, Idaho, New Mexico and Arizona — indicate that the governor's personal impact in closed-door political conferences along the way produced a sizable gain for him.

Possibly the most interesting aspect of his trip as viewed at the strategy level is the evident fact that he was almost exclusively his own spokesman in face-to-face talks with party leaders.

Asked for a report on how Romney was doing with these leaders, one of the governor's aides confessed he had no real idea, that neither he nor others of Romney's staff were sitting in.

The governor is still regarded in many quarters as a political novice. But it is plain he does not see it that way. Coming off his experience as a governor, a civic leader and a corporation executive, he has immense confidence in his hand-on-eye tactic of persuasion.

The night Romney landed in Seattle for an overnight stop en route to Alaska, Washington state leaders and county chairmen were meeting with Gov. Dan Evans in Olympia. Romney made a late-evening 100-mile round trip drive to talk to them for a bit more than half an hour in private session. Though time did not allow a real exchange of views, he evidently made some dent just by showing up.

In Anchorage, Alaska, at a noontime session with Republican precinct workers, the governor himself brought up the thorny business of his failure to support Barry Goldwater in 1964. A detached observer who was there says his forthright argument scored some points with conservative listeners.

He had little persuasive work to do in heavily Mormon Utah. Says Aroused Public Opinion Swayed Decision on Powell

WASHINGTON—Public opinion in America can act swiftly and decisively when it is aroused, and that's what happened when the House of Representatives decided to exclude Adam Clayton Powell from membership.

Naturally there has been a bitter reaction from some of the Negro leaders in various cities. But they, as well as a few members of Congress, may be failing to perceive the true significance of the whole episode. Here was a man who had been serving in Harlem as the minister of a Baptist church, but who is formally charged by an investigating committee with having misused government funds. Should he be seated in the House of Representatives? In fact, many people have been asking why the Department of Justice has not yet initiated a prosecution to determine the legal nature of the frauds which were alleged to have been committed.

Much of the mail to members of Congress on the Powell case came from the north—primarily from women who were disturbed by the defiant behavior of Adam Clayton Powell as well as his escapades in the Bahamas. Many citizens, too, resented the fact that he ignored court orders and was a fugitive from justice, not even showing up in his own district for months.

This attitude, together with the cynicism expressed by Powell himself concerning the whole affair, has made a deep impression on persons of all races. While the controversy concerns the behavior of an ordained minister and a politician who happens to be a Negro, the indignation of citizens, irrespective of race, throughout the country—particularly women—was expressed in letters to members of the House of Representatives.

The civil-rights movement has been making rapid progress in recent years, but it can experience an unfortunate downturn in the number of its supporters if Negro leaders plainly overlook the misdeeds of Adam Clayton Powell and insist that he is being punished just because of his race.

There are plenty of court cases in which white persons of prominence have been tried and convicted in recent months, including Bobby Baker and James Hoffa. To fail to punish

Difficult Adjustments

Chaos Is Spelled Out In Uniform Time Act

By DAVID R. HOLDEN CHICAGO (AP) — In Georgia, a legislator protested that going on Daylight Saving Time would disconcert the chickens.

In Iowa, a rural type declared that pushing the clock ahead would soften up the younger generation for communism. The governor of Kentucky doesn't dare venture out of the state. If he does, the lieutenant governor has promised to call a special legislative session to put Kentucky on Standard Time by law.

One Must Be DST In Indiana, the legislature decreed that in each public building one clock be designated "official" must be on Daylight Saving Time. Otherwise every Indiana community can decide for itself what kind of time it wants.

And then there's Alaska, where the situation is too confused to bear thinking of. Why? Because Alaska has no fewer than four time zones, that's why. Such is the chaos brought about by the Uniform Time Act which Congress passed last year.

Under the act, all parts of every state must observe Daylight Saving Time from the last Sunday in April until the last Sunday in October — unless the state legislature passes a law decreeing the statewide use of Standard Time.

In states divided by two time zones it was often the practice in the past to let the eastern part remain unchanged while the western zone adopted DST to give the state a uniform summer time. Such manipulations are forbidden by the new federal statute.

Some in Two Zones

States lying in two zones — such as Kansas, Indiana, Idaho, Nevada, Nebraska, Florida, Texas, Tennessee, Michigan, Kentucky North and South Dakota — may have difficulty adjusting their time policies.

Opposition to compliance in Iowa, Arkansas and Minnesota does not appear likely to prevail. The bills in Hawaii and Texas appear sure of passage.

The strength of forces for and against DST in the other legislatures cannot be determined since they have not convened or the bills are still in the initial stages.

A major battle seems certain in Georgia where the time controversy could reach fever pitch.

The primary opposition comes from rural areas, where residents claim late sunrises hamper farm work; outdoor theatre owners, who contend late sunsets hurt their business and parents who said DST will result in additional days on which their children will leave for school in the dark.

Proponents of DST are usually from urban areas where pushing the clock ahead gives industrial workers and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. office workers an extra hour of sunshine for after work recreation.

Cyclists Nabbed On Dope Charges

CLAY, N.Y. (AP) — Eleven persons—five of them identified as members of a Lockport motorcycle club—face court action today in what State Police say was the seizure of a "large quantity" of marijuana.

The 11 were arrested Saturday in a raid on a restaurant in this community north of Syracuse. All were charged with possession of narcotics and arraigned before Peace Justice Stewart DeVaul of Cicero.

Troopers declined to reveal the exact amount of the narcotic involved, pending court action.

The raid was staged at the Stevedore Restaurant, which, troopers said, had been under surveillance "for quite a period of time."

James W. Arnold, 29, of Newfane, and Richard C. Beamer, 26, Peter A. Bennett, 25, Marvin E. Haak, 22, and Brian A. Reynolds, 25, all of Lockport, were charged with possession of marijuana. The others were identified as: Thomas Roehm of Cicero, William C. Hessler of Kenmore, Donald Fadden of Nedrow, Craig Stevens, Sherry Houlder and Lorinda Scherer all of Syracuse. Bail was set at $2,500.

New Adjournment Target

Abort, Health Plan Take Over Albany Spotlight

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Controversy over the abortion law and compulsory health insurance took the Capitol Hill spotlight today as the Legislature's leaders agreed on a new target date for adjourning the 1967 session — March 30.

Attention was focused on the Assembly Codes Committee, which scheduled a closed-door meeting to debate the celebrated Blumenthal bill, which would greatly liberalize the abortion law. Its fate was in serious doubt.

Meanwhile, a Senate-Assembly study group sought public opinion on the health-insurance proposal at the first in a series of public hearings. Spokesmen for both labor and business pressed their attack on the plan in prepared testimony.

The new target date for adjournment represents a one-week extension of the original timetable, which had proposed to ring down the curtain on March 23 — just ahead of the Easter weekend.

Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia told The Associated Press that he and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges were forced to alter their plans because the fiscal committees still had not completed their examination of Gov. Rockefeller's $4.7-billion budget.

Travia said the budget — with some economy reductions recommended — would not be ready for floor action until mid-March. Since no bills carrying appropriations may be passed until the budget is cleared, virtually all other major legislation also is being held in abeyance.

"We'll need at least two weeks after the budget is passed to clear up the rest of our business," Travia said. A Brydges spokesman concurred.

The new timetable still would enable the leaders to achieve their real objective — to wind up the session before the State Constitutional Convention moves into the Capitol, on April 4.

The plan now is to work through Thursday, March 23, and recess for a long Easter weekend, then return for the final push on Tuesday, March 28.

Youth Is Charged With Purse Snatch

An alleged purse snatching Saturday resulted in the arrest of Robert Marshall Jr., 17, of 297 Abell Street on a first degree robbery charge.

It is charged that Marshall grabbed the purse of Mrs. Elizabeth Mayr, 65, of 32 Abell Street, while she was on porch steps at 71 Abell Street, with such force that he caused her to fall and suffer injuries for which she was treated at Kingston Hospital.

Police noted the arrest by officers William Whalen and Jerry Vitke at 6:29 p. m. shortly after Marshall had allegedly grabbed the purse and ran off with it.

City Judge Hubert A. Richter today adjourned hearing on Wednesday and Attorney John E. Gotelli was assigned to represent the defendant. Bail of $5,000 was not posted.

Fined on Check Charge

Thomas Rizzo, 36, of Pleasant Valley, was arrested Sunday by Kingston State Police on a charge of issuing a fraudulent $35 check at Waldbaum's store. He pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly and was fined $10 and given a 30-day suspended sentence. Rizzo made restitution, according to Trooper David Wachtel.

Pentagon Plans To Disband 27th Armored Division

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Military officials agree that a Pentagon reorganization plan probably means the end for the 27th Armored Division of the State National Guard.

The division's 8,000 members, organized at about 30 locations in Upstate New York, probably will be reformed into support units, these officials say.

Maj. Gen. Almerin C. O'Hara, commanding general of the State Army National Guard and chief of staff to Gov. Rockefeller, said Saturday he had been expecting "such a move" for some time.

Saw It Coming

"Ever since the first plan to merge the Army Reserve with the National Guard was proposed, a year and a half ago, the 27th Armored has been scheduled to be eliminated," he said.

O'Hara said the division, composed almost wholly of civilians who also are National Guardsmen, has been kept at about half strength and given the oldest weapons in the military arsenal.

Meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Collin of the 27th, said in Syracuse Sunday that the actual reorganization was at least nine months away. He predicted that the 27th would go through its annual two-week encampment at Camp Drum near Watertown, N.Y., as usual this summer.

Williams recalled that Gov. Rockefeller addressed the assembled division at Camp Drum during its annual training in 1965 and predicted at that time the division would be dissolved. Williams said the 27th, which fought in the Pacific in World War II as the 27th Infantry Division, would be broken into smaller units to support National Guard combat units from other states, in the event of war.

He speculated that the 27th, now a combat armored force, could end up as transportation units, engineer battalions, signal corps units and an armored brigade.

Still Be Guard

O'Hara added that such a brigade would continue to perform the functions of the National Guard in the event of state or national emergencies, in what appeared to be a reference to the 1964 riots in Rochester, in which 1,200 National Guardsmen were called out to help restore order.

O'Hara and Williams commented on a report from Washington Saturday that the Joint Chiefs of Staff planned to drop 15 half-strength National Guard divisions.

This would result in a streamlined Army National Guard and Reserve force of eight divisions and 16 independent brigades, all at full combat strength.

The 27th, which also fought in World War I and traces its history to the Civil War, now has three integral armored brigades, with headquarters in Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo.

Probe Vandalism

A report of vandalism at the Wiltwyck Country Club over the weekend was under investigation today by the sheriff's department. There was entry to the club house but considerable damage was done outside. It was reported writing on the wall, a broken snow shovel and planks on a settee was among the damage done.

150th Date Appoints Editor To Head Rites For Erie Canal

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today named Fritz S. Uddike, editor and general manager of the Rome Daily Sentinel, to head a new state commission to plan observances of the 150th anniversary of the start of construction of the Erie Canal.

Rockefeller designated Uddike as chairman of the 24-member unit as he announced appointment of 11 members.

The governor has one more appointment to make, and the remaining 12 are to be named by the Legislature's leaders.

Members will serve without salary but will be reimbursed for expenses.

The governor's other appointments: Robert Clark, Fayetteville, president of the board of trustees of the Erie Canal Museum; Dr. Joseph Ostrowski, Rome, a surgeon; Parkier F. Scripture, Rome, chairman of the Erie Canal Sesquicentennial Committee; Howard D. Williams, Hamilton, a history professor at Colgate University.

Also, William F. Hovey, Fort Hunter, a businessman and attorney; Donald F. Davison, Spencerport, president of the Onden Telephone Co.; Dr. David Lyons, director of the Canal Society of New York State; Alfred G. Wintrev, New York, a businessman; Crandall Melvin Jr., Liverpool, a lawyer; and John E. Moss, a Rochester businessman.

Says Two U. S. Craft to Blame For Viet Deaths

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. military command acknowledged today that two U.S. Air Force Phantom jets mistakenly bombed the refugee-crammed village of Lang Vei last Thursday but still gave no explanation for the mistake.

The raid killed at least 100 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 175 others, according to unofficial accounts from the village in the northwest corner of South Vietnam near the Laotian border.

The U.S. Command said 83 villagers were killed, 10 were missing and 176 were injured. It was the worst such accidental bombing of the war.

The U.S. Command said one bomb from the F4 Phantom hit a nearby U.S. Army Special Forces camp, causing light damage but no American casualties.

The planes were identified through flight schedules and bomb fragments. U.S. spokesmen had said until today the planes were believed American or South Vietnamese but had refused to rule out the possibility that they were from North Vietnam.

Hudson Highlands Park Is Proposed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A bipartisan resolution has been introduced in the State Senate asking Congress to create a Park extending from Storm King Mountain, near Cornwall to Dunderberg Mountain near Peekskill.

The resolution was submitted by Sens. Whitney N. Seymour Jr., R-Manhattan, and Basil A. Pearson, D-Manhattan.

Seymour said today that he would like to see action on the resolution but believed that even if formal adoption were not forthcoming, the document would serve to alert the community of the need for such a park.

The resolution notes that the area includes the New York section of the Palisades Interstate Park, the West Point Military Reservation and the Stillman Black Rock Forest.

Oui, DeGaulle French Voters Say in Election

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's forces held their own in the first round of France's National Assembly election Sunday, and no significant shifts in the popular vote developed.

Complete returns for Metropolitan France, covering 470 of the 487 Assembly seats, gave the Gaullists 37 per cent of the vote and made them once again the largest party. In the first round of voting in the 1962 Assembly elections, the Gaullists won about the same per cent.

The remainder of the returns, from overseas districts, will not be in for another day.

If the voting in the second round next Sunday also duplicates the 1962 pattern, the Gaullists will be assured of a majority similar to their 24-million-vote margin in the outgoing Parliament. De Gaulle had appealed for another majority to continue the stability his rule brought to France.

This week's series will cover the problem of reopening the bidding when your opponents stop at a part score. We start with a horrible example from a match point duplicate game.

There was nothing wrong with the first round of bidding. West had a sound opening bid and South was justified in reopening. He had spades and it was obvious after East's pass that North was going to show up with some strength.

West's two diamond bid was a trifle dangerous but West was looking at three aces and two kings. North's raise to two spades was sound. East's three heart bid was typical duplicate tactics. He had passed to one heart and now was ready to compete. South and East had done all they could and North proceeded to double three hearts. His theory was that his partner would make two spades for a score of 110 (60 plus 50 for the part score) and that if he set three hearts one trick he would only collect 100 points unless he doubled.

His analysis was correct. Playing at three hearts West would have to lose two heart tricks and one trick in each other suit. Unfortunately, North had reckoned without his partner. South was unwilling to defend against three hearts doubled and ran out to three spades.

West doubled this on general principles and five potential tricks. As the cards lay, West might actually have beaten South two tricks by opening the king of clubs although South could hold his loss to one by guessing the location of every card, but West started out by taking his high red cards and South was down one for the same bottom score that down two would have been.

Veterans' Rights,
Benefits Listed

The following is a list of news and tips for area veterans from Charles Culver, state veteran counselor and John Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency. Offices are located in the County Office Building.

Benefits Non-Taxable—In New York State, disability pensions and other benefits granted for the relief of injured or disabled veterans as well as tuition payments, subsistence allowances and other benefits paid to veterans or their survivors, under the laws relating to veterans, are not taxable and need not be reported on personal state income tax returns.

World War II Veterans and Widows—Eligibility for GI loans is running out daily. The final deadline for all eligible World War II veterans or their unremarried widows is July 25, 1967—less than five months away.

Retired Members of the Armed Forces—May be cared for at VA hospitals on a space-available basis. Out patient care is included in this service. No provision has been made under this program, however, for treatment of a retiree's dependents by the VA.

Recently Discharged Veterans should report to their local Selective Service Office within ten days of their separation. Likewise, they should have their discharge certificate recorded through their local Veterans Service Agency, as soon as possible.

Persons Reporting for Active Duty With the Armed Forces—Urged to put their personal affairs in order before leaving for duty. In citing vital personal and family documents which should be stored in a safe place, birth, marriage and death certificates, divorce papers, life insurance policies, titles, deeds, and mortgage documents pertaining to real estate, as well as pertinent papers concerning major items of personal property. It is equally important to let the family know what arrangements have been made for them in the event of death. The simplest way to do this, is to prepare a personal affairs record listing important papers and documents and where they are kept, as well as personal data including place of birth, parents' names, name of spouse, names of children, marriage date and place, as well as the name of a personal lawyer, a family member, or trusted friend who may be consulted regarding personal or business affairs. Consideration should also be given to the making of a will to insure that persons named by the servicemen become his beneficiaries.

Toronto, capital of Ontario, Canada, has a population of 665,502 for the city proper and 1.25 million for the metropolitan area.

A-Weapon Ban Is Opposed by Have Not Nations

LONDON (AP) — "Nonproliferation" is almost a dirty word in some European capitals.

To critics, a proposed U.S.-Soviet treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons is a device to keep Europe in second-class status.

The European objections to the nuclear nonproliferation treaty which is being discussed at the Geneva disarmament conference are as complex as Europe's history.

Some Europeans fear the treaty would halt the Continent's drive toward unity, undercut its military security and crumble its peaceful atomic technology.

Justified or not, these fears are holding up the East-West agreement.

The treaty would prevent nuclear powers from passing on their weapons or know-how to other nations. It pleases the nonnuclear not to make or acquire atomic weapons, and sets up an inspection system run by the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna.

Opposition is headed by West Germany, which is not formally represented at the Geneva talks but has an observer there.

German leaders, while welcoming a restriction of nuclear weapons, complain that their country's nuclear technology would be held back. Some say defense plans would be hobbled because they include use of nuclear warheads now under U.S. control.

Italy, which fears that the treaty may slow down the integration of Western Europe, has taken a cautious line but opinion seems to be more in favor of the treaty. The independent press generally has praised it despite some misgivings.

Italy has a direct interest in the talks, since it is the Common Market's largest producer of nuclear power and plans to double its capacity in five years.

The French are clearly against the treaty and will refuse to sign it. They see it as a symbol of what President Charles de Gaulle calls "the hegemony of the superpowers." France has an A-bomb and nuclear power agreements with its neighbors. It fears that inspection would affect the status of Euratom, the Common Market's atomic energy agency.

Britain, alone among Western European nations, supports the treaty without reservations and has lobbied for it. This may affect a bid to enter the Common Market.

Set State Trooper Test for April 8

Several thousand young men from New York and nearby states are expected to take a written competitive examination on April 8 for appointments as New York State troopers. The examination will be given at 15 locations throughout the state, Superintendent Arthur Cornelius Jr., announced today.

The pay will start at $6,225. With annual increments of $340. Maximum pay for troopers is $8,945.

Candidates must be at least 21-years-old and not have passed their 29th birthday at the time of appointment. Persons within three months of their 21st birthday and otherwise eligible may take the examination. Applicants over 29 may be credited with time spent in military service toward satisfying the maximum age limitation.

Applications may be obtained at any New York State Police station or by writing to: State Police, Public Security Building, State Campus, Albany, 12226. A postcard request is sufficient. To be considered for admission to the examination, a completed application form must be sent to the Albany address, postmarked by midnight April 1.

Candidates must be United States citizens, hold a high school or New York State equivalency diploma, be at least five feet, nine inches tall, with weight in proportion to build, and be free of physical defects. They also must possess a driver's license, with a satisfactory driving record, and have nothing in their background indicating character defects. Residency in New York State at the time of appointment is required.

The written examination will cover subjects testing general knowledge, intelligence and aptitudes of the applicant for a law enforcement career.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Do you know what to do when a door sticks, or won't open as easily as it should? Take a squeeze bottle of shampoo and apply a little along the edge that rubs; wait a few seconds and it is "open sesame!"

I also learned that undiluted liquid dishwashing detergent works well, too.

Linda Randolph

Dear Linda:

This is a great idea for un-sticking doors.

I also had two wooden kitchen drawers that wouldn't slide very well.

I pulled them out, dumped the contents on a newspaper and squirted a thin line of shampoo along the runners, let it dry a bit, put the drawers back in their places, and pull them out several times. They now slide "slick as a whistle."

By dumping the stuff in the drawers on a newspaper, naturally it messed them up and required a straightening out before they could be replaced.

Sorting the contents didn't take long and was a good way to get the drawers cleaned at the same time.

Try it, gals... why not kill two birds with one stone? If you mess it up good you'll have to clean it.

... Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I discovered a new way to utilize coffee cans with the plastic lids.

When preparing chicken for frying, I place the flour and other seasonings in the can, put in a few pieces of chicken at a time, put the lid back on and give it a vigorous shaking.

The flour is much more evenly distributed than when I use other methods. And did you ever have the bottom of a paper bag break while shaking chicken pieces? Oh... Brother!

Any leftover flour may be stored in the can until needed again. Just replace the plastic lid.

... B. L. C.

Dear Heloise:

I cut nylon net into strips and wind it around two or three wire coat hangers that are the same shape.

My garments do not slip off these hangers.

Teresa Crawford

Yes, you are exactly right. And these wrapped nylon coat hangers are wonderful for drying drip-dries, too.

No creases on the shoulder and no rust!

... Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When my young children take bubble baths, I always let them use colored wash clothes in the tub.

They are much easier for the tots to find among the oodles of bubbles.

... A Reader

Dear Heloise:

I took a small batch of address labels, licked only the bottom one, and stuck the entire stack on top of my stationery box.

Now, no more scrambling for that little old stack of labels. All I do is tear off the top one each time.

... Molly Manning

Dear Heloise:

When I make mashed potatoes I always add a pinch of baking powder as I pour in my milk.

I find this make them far lighter and fluffier.

... Rose

Dear Heloise:

When my son was small and wore one-piece snowsuits, I bought inexpensive ones each year and converted them into sleeping bags.

I sewed the cuffs on each leg closed (so his feet would stay warm), and used this as a sleeping garment on top of his pajamas.

There was never a worry about blankets falling off or getting over his face.

Mrs. Vera Taneri

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Assembly Passes Two Wilson Bills

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County announced today that the State Assembly has voted the approval of two pieces of legislation which he introduced this year dealing with proposed changes in the State's Civil Service Law, and the Town Law, and Wilson added that both measures would now go to the State Senate for further action.

Assemblyman Wilson further stated that both of the bills have been sponsored in the upper house by Senator Jay P. Rolison of Dutchess County.

According to Assemblyman Wilson, the proposed amendment to the Civil Service Law would require that all promotional examinations for civil service positions must contain questions which, as far as possible, are pertinent and relative to the duties of the position sought.

Ask Exam Change

The Assemblyman stated that many civil service employees and groups, both in Ulster County and throughout the state, have argued that promotional examinations tend to have little bearing on the actual duties of the job involved, and even though a person might be completely trained and qualified for a higher civil service position, they might not be able to answer some of the more unrelated questions in a promotional test, and thereby fail to qualify for the job.

Wilson said that he was most pleased that the other members of the Assembly agreed with him that some remedial action had to be taken on this problem.

Assemblyman Wilson said that the second measure, which would amend the present provisions of the Town Law, and allow a local Town Board to establish certain regulations concerning the keeping of fowl within the town. Wilson said that the proposed change in the law was suggested last year by a resolution of the Esopus Town Board here in Ulster County in which the Board asked that the state give them a greater degree of home rule in the regulation of fowl.

Cites Town Law

Assemblyman Wilson pointed out that the Town Law presently allows a town board to regulate the keeping of certain animals such as calves, mink, and swine, as well as establishing regulations concerning the running at large of various types of animals and fowl within the town. Wilson added, however, that the proposed legislation would be completely permissive in nature, and that the bill would not, in any way, mandate town boards to take any action which they did not feel was necessary, or which was not in the best interests of the town.

Add Grain Drain To List of U.S. Current Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the nation's grain warehouses — bulging in recent years with surplus wheat and other grains, that depressed farm incomes and cost taxpayers heavily for storage fees — are empty now.

Increasing foreign demands gave the United States a chance to siphon off its once enormous grain surplus.

But the government still is keeping enough surplus grain on hand to meet the "possibility" of drought or other natural phenomena that could drive production of grains below American needs.

The reduction of grain surpluses along with government crop production controls hasn't kept the United States from maintaining its position as the world's No. 1 grain exporter.

That's because the nation still produces far more than it normally needs to meet domestic needs. The over-production either is exported or stored to stave off possible future shortages here at home.

The decline in wheat surpluses particularly has been sharp. Even with government limitations on production, stocks accumulated during the 1950s and by 1961 extra supplies climbed to a record 1.4 billion bushels — enough to supply American food needs for nearly three years.

By the time this year's wheat crop is harvested, these stocks are expected to have fallen to 400 million bushels. This is slightly less than the amount some farm officials say is needed as a safe reserve.

The grain drain started in 1961 with an increase in world demand for wheat. Many countries, including the Soviet Union and newly underdeveloped nations, turned to this country for wheat. As a result, exports which had been averaging less than half a billion bushels annually jumped to 856 million in 1963 and to a record 867 million last year.

Present indications are that exports of wheat this year may dip to around 745 million bushels. This still would be far above the 1959-63 average of 678 million and would top Canada, the world's No. 2 wheat exporter, as by close to 150 million bushels. It's possible this year's wheat crop will be a record-breaking 1.6 billion bushels. A crop of this size would permit increased exports during the coming year and also restore domestic reserves. The previous record wheat crop was 1.46 billion bushels in 1958.

Saugerties Woman Killed

was crashed into by a diesel engine of a New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad train at the Buckingham Avenue crossing in Poughkeepsie.

The victims were John Trainor, 58, of Colonial Gardens Apartments Town of Poughkeepsie, and his grandson, Francis Stahl III, 7, of 75 Fairview Avenue, in that township. Three other persons were injured in the mishap.

Poughkeepsie police identified the injured as: Mrs. Ida Trainor, 53, wife of one of the victims of the fatal collision, whose condition was listed as fair at St. Francis' Hospital, Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Janet Stahl, 32, daughter of the Trainors, whose condition was listed as grave after treatment, and her daughter Lauri, 3, who also was in grave condition.

The mishap occurred at about 4 p. m. Saturday. Trainor, who had been employed in the assembly department at the Schatz Manufacturing Co. more than 30 years, was driving north on Buckingham Avenue. The family had been on a shopping tour in Poughkeepsie.

As the train plowed into the car, the vehicle with its occupants was dragged 245 feet along the tracks. The Stahl boy was thrown from the vehicle midway between the crossing and the spot where the car finally came to a stop, police said.

Police Lieut. Frank McManus and Sergeant Roland Massie who investigated at the crossing were in working condition. The said the flash signal started when the train was about 613 feet east of the crossing.

Signal Lights Operating

Members of the train crew told police they saw the car proceeding across the tracks and tried to stop the locomotive, but were unsuccessful. They said the signal lights at the crossing were operating at the time.

Crew members on the train included: George Winnie, New Palz, engineer; Charles N. Mills Jr., 216 Mansion Street Poughkeepsie, fireman; Robert L. Mays, Maybrook, conductor; Louis Finkbeiner, Walden, flagman; Ezra Roe, New Windsor, brakeman; and James M. Miller, Maybrook, signalman.

Police reported the locomotive was used for pushing freight cars and was being operated from Hopewell Junction for use in the city of Poughkeepsie.

Alamo and Arlington Fire Department ambulances took the injured to the hospital in Poughkeepsie. City firemen responded to an alarm and assisted police in extricating the occupants of the car from the wreckage.

Second Family Tragedy

Saturday's tragedy came as a second one to the Stahl family. On Feb. 11, the Stahl boy's father, Francis Stahl Sr., 63, died after a short illness. He had been the operator of a refrigerator and air conditioning business in Poughkeepsie the last 35 years and was known as a talented musician.

Cars operated by Booth R. Pendell, 24, of 133 Hinsdale Street, city, and Richard E. Morris, 36, of Albany Avenue, also of Kingston, were involved in a collision at the traffic circle at Route 587, according to Trooper McKilligan. Morris, troopers said, was attempting to pass the other vehicle at the time of the crash.

Morris was cited by troopers for unsafe passing. The summons is returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly, Town of Ulster.

Car Hits Horse

Martin MacDaniel, of Route 1, Box 348A, Kingston, escaped injury at 8:55 p. m. Saturday when his car hit a horse on Route 9W about one mile south of Route 209, Town of Ulster, according to troopers at the Kingston substation.

Trailer Rams Tree

While driving a tractor-trailer north on the State Thruway at about 7:20 a. m. today, Luther Ramsey, 49, of 145 Van Horn Street, Jersey City, N. J., lost control as he entered the service area near milepost 99 (north) and hit a tree.

Ramsey was taken to Kingston Hospital by the Saugerties Ambulance Service and treated for injuries of the legs and shoulders. An ambulance service spokesman said the tractor-trailer or jack-knifed after hitting the tree. The truck was owned by the Somer Metal Co., of Jersey City.

Darlene Hommel, RFD 2, Saugerties, was injured Saturday when her car went out of control and hit a utility pole near Fairview off Route 23A. She was taken to Greene Coun-

Appeal Sounded On TB Hospital

Support from the citizens of Ulster County is being sought by Supervisor George Majestic (D), Gardiner, to help keep the TB Hospital open and to make full use of the hospital by treating other chronic chest diseases. He feels that converting the hospital into a nursing home would be a "step backward."

In an appeal sent out, Supervisor Majestic asks that Citizens write to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors expressing their views on keeping the TB Hospital open for tubercular patients and those with chronic chest diseases.

Supervisor Majestic feels that the tuberculosis cases could be isolated in a separate wing and the remainder of the hospital facilities used for treatment of chronic chest diseases.

In particular Majestic appeals to the residents of the First, Third, Ninth and Eleventh wards to contact their respective supervisors and express their thanks for the support of those supervisors who had the "strength, courage and convictions" to cast a vote supporting the continuation of the TB hospital.

Majestic charges that pressures will be used to sway the residents of the supervisors who have voted to keep the TB hospital open and he cites the new plan for a Four Legislative District with nomination of candidates made by a "committee or committees within the Legislative District and not by enrolled voters."

Majestic charges that this will place the nomination of candidates for supervisor in the hands of the "Republican Machine" taking it from the hands of the enrolled voters. In addition to the four Republicans who voted for retention of the TB Hospital in Kingston, Majestic also notes that Supervisor Peter Williams, Saugerties Republican, supports the move to keep the TB Hospital open and not send the patients to the State Hospital at Oneonta so that the local TB Hospital may be diverted to infirmary purposes.

ings were completely involved in flames. We didn't have a chance to save them, but we managed to save the old stone house and other buildings on the property by pouring water on them.

Shortly before 3 a. m. Sunday fire was discovered in a converted two-family house on the former Ives property on Route 209 about one mile east of Accord. The property is owned by Howland, Saugerties, who was traveling south on the road. No injuries were reported.

Fire Chief Floyd Countryman of the Accord Fire Department said Assistant Chief Edward Kelder was in command of the firefighters who fought in vain to save the building. The house was destroyed despite efforts of the volunteer firemen.

Music Center Blaze

Ulster Hose Co. firefighters were dispatched to the Kingston Music Center on Albany Avenue shortly before 10 p. m. Saturday and stood by after an oil furnace overflowed. A serviceman told firemen that some 32 gallons of oil had entered the furnace area.

As the man ignited the boiler smoke poured forth and filled the building. Firemen in charge of Chief William Fishang and Capt. Charles Crespinio used chimneys, flares and smoke ejectors to clear the building of the dense smoke.

No estimate of damage was reported. Firemen stood by with a pumper and emergency truck until repairs were made to the burner.

At 3:25 p. m. Sunday, Ulster Hose Co. officials received a telephone call from a resident of Pine Place in Sunset Park, reporting she thought she heard an explosion in the Herrick home nearby. The family was on a skiing trip at Hunter at the time.

A company spokesman said firemen forced open a back door after they saw smoke inside the house. Investigation disclosed that a rubber hose attached to a washing machine in the cellar had separated, and water flooded the cellar.

Caused Blow Back

The water caused a blow back in the furnace, resulting in considerable smoke. Firemen in charge of Chief Fishang and Assistant Chief William Williams shut off the water and pumped out the cellar. Two officers and eight men responded to the alarm which was listed as a "still alarm." Damage was slight, fire officials reported.

The 62-year-old John Coon was born in Claryville, son of the late John and Mary Wells Coon. He resided in the Summitville area for the past 32 years and was a laborer for the New York State Department of Highways.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Hattie Martinez, both of Ellenville; and one son, Vernon Coon, Glen Wild. Also surviving are five sisters, Mrs. Gladys Harris, Wurtsboro, Mrs. Sylvia Wright, Monticello, Mrs. Lulu Grimm, Spring Glen, Mrs. Berta Penchysky, Monticello and Mrs. Hila Atkins, White Sulphur Springs; and one brother, Jessi Coon, Spring Glen. Five grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Coon was the daughter of Mrs. Hattie Van Leuvan Ingerick and the late Samuel Ingerick. In addition to the survivors listed above, she was survived by another daughter, Mrs. Ruth Rodriguez, Middletown; two sons, John and Henry Newhall, of Middletown; two sisters, Mrs. Florence Bender and Mrs. Jennie Wright, Manchester, Conn.; her mother, a Liberty resident; and 14 grandchildren.

The children who died were both born in Monticello, son and daughter of Hubert C. and Catherine Coon Hutchinson. They are survived by their parents; his maternal great-grandmother; and several aunts and uncles. Funeral services for all four will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday, from the Loucks Funeral Home, Ellenville, with the Rev. George H. Winn officiating. Burial will be in the Claryville Cemetery. There will be no calling hours.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced in fairly active trading early today.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about 5 to 3 but the Dow Jones industrial average showed only a thin gain as many blue chips performed indifferently.

Some of the building material issues acted well in view of the aid to the housing industry. U.S. Gypsum advanced more than a point. Johns-Manville, a fraction.

Among the stronger issues throughout the list, Ling-Temco-Vought gained about 3, Xerox 2, Goodrich, and Douglas Aircraft about a point each.

Also ahead about a point were Polaroid, United Air Lines, Spatran Industries and Rayonier.

Fractional losses were taken by such issues as General Motors, U.S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric, International Harvester and Zenith.

Stocks showed a slightly higher trend at the opening and widened the gap between gainers and losers as the session continued.

Conservatives Against Reds in County Schools

"We believe that the employment of Communists in our school system will endanger the moral well-being of our children," stated Harry S. Hoffman Jr., chairman of the Ulster County Conservative Party.

"Students are an impressionable and captive audience," Hoffman said. "They are encouraged by their parents to respect and obey their teachers, and this fosters in children the impression that teachers are 'infallible.' The efficiency of the educational system would be impaired if it were otherwise."

Moral Obligation "However," Hoffman continued, "this structure imposes a serious moral obligation on parents and educators to assure that our children are in an environment promoting the moral values which will insure the continuance of our form of government and the principles upon which it was founded."

"It is gratifying to learn that the vast majority of the people in our area realize the dangers inherent in the recent Supreme Court ruling which allows a self-proclaimed Communist to teach our young impressionable students. The arguments presented in defense of the Court's ruling are fallacious," Hoffman stated.

"Rights are given to an individual by our Constitution only to the point where they begin to infringe upon the corresponding rights of others. The classic example of this is the right to freedom of speech in the legal denial to an individual of the right to scream 'FIRE' in a crowded theatre because it would cause panic and endanger the lives of the people assembled."

Serious Error "It is a serious error, Hoffman continued, "to think a self-proclaimed Communist is dangerous only when he is teaching Political Science or lecturing from a soap box. A well-timed communistic thought suggested to a confused or doubtful mind can result in irreparable damage."

Whether the student is in a Math or History class, or on the playground, this point is dramatically portrayed in the motion picture 'Dr. Zhivago.' One sentence from a Communist at the propitious moment resulted in murder and mass desertion.

"Another fallacious position held by some supporters of the Court ruling is that the Communist Party can be equated with political partis in this country. Our bona-fide political parties work to maintain the orderly progress of our nation, although there are wide differences in opinion among the parties as to how this shall be done. They espouse the philosophy of representative government."

Different Goals

"The Communist Party, on the other hand, is not a bona-fide political party; it espouses a philosophy diametrically opposed to that of representative government as conceived by our Constitution; it is a covert organization dedicated to World Communism which includes the overthrow of our government by any means considered necessary to achieve the goal—moral means or immoral means; Communism denies the existence of a Supreme Being. Its moral code, which is diametrically opposed to our Christian-Judaic code originating with the acceptance of the Ten Commandments, disqualifies the Communist access to normal social intercourse in our community, and especially to the delicate adult-child relationship in our schools," Hoffman opined.

"Many of our youth, as well as adults, desire to gain more knowledge of the dangers of Communism. The Conservative Party," Hoffman said, "advocates the offering of courses on Communism in the high school and adult education classes. However, under no circumstances should these proposed classes be taught by persons professing alien philosophies or ideologies. We want our children to know the evils of crime, but we do not employ criminals to teach them. Likewise, we want our children to know the inevitable consequences of disregarding our moral codes, but we do not employ a degenerate to teach them. At present, the education of these subjects is entrusted primarily to the parents and supplemented by civic organizations and churches. The learning of Communism is as sensitive as the learning of these other subjects and should be handled with equal care."

Many Qualified

"We believe there are many qualified and dedicated Americans who will be glad to accept the responsibility of teaching the proposed classes and there are many excellent textbooks available, such as Cleon Skousen's 'The Naked Communists' and J. Edgar Hoover's 'A Study of Communism.'"

The Supreme Court Decision declaring the State's Feinberg Law unconstitutional, in essence declared the New York State loyalty oath to be void. We believe, said Hoffman, that the Albany Legislators should, therefore, pass another mandatory oath for our teachers in which the wording would be more specific. It would be fitting indeed, considering the opinions expressed by Ulster County citizens on the radio public opinion program aforementioned, for Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson to introduce appropriate legislation."

Hoffman concluded "One of the prime objectives of conservatives is to fight the diabolical philosophy of Communism in order to preserve our Union and to ensure the safe keeping of our heritage for our children and grandchildren."

Ted Supports RFK On Vietnam Moves

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has added his voice to that of his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., in urging a move for peace in Vietnam.

Edward Kennedy gave his views in a speech at the 19th annual Roosevelt Day dinner of the Massachusetts chapter of Americans for Democratic Action.

America's obligation to the Vietnamese "calls for less war, not more; negotiations soon, not later," he said.

He described a speech made Thursday in the Senate by his brother as "a serious and constructive" call to "take new initiatives for peace, to take that extra step that those in a position of power can afford in the interest of peace."

Younger Men

The impact of a decision in this area is clear from the fact that about one-third of all 19-year-olds go to college.

Johnson conceded that student deferments have led to inequities because many have been able to parlay temporary deferments into permanent exemptions.

As he put it, "Deferred for undergraduate work, deferred further to pursue graduate study and then deferred even beyond that for fatherhood or occupational reasons, some young men have managed to pile deferment on deferment until they missed the normal cut-off point for induction."

He said elimination of many grounds for deferment will halt this situation. And he said there will be new, tougher but unspecified rules for all types of deferments, including student deferments.

Promises Improvements Johnson also promised immediate improvements in the Selective Service system "to assure better service to the registrant both in counseling and appeals, better information to the public regarding the system's operation and broader representation on local board of the communities they serve."

The advisory commission recommended a major consolidation of the decentralized draft machinery, featuring the elimination of local boards as now constituted.

Johnson said the local board concept "is built on a uniquely American belief — that local citizens can perform a valuable service to the government and the community. In the event of any large demonstration, these officers would probably be called upon to assist. Instructions in mob or riot control such as will be given at the police school would then be of great importance in the cooperative effort of the sheriff's department and other police departments."

The school will be conducted under the direction of Roger Robinson of the FBI, New York City, a former Duke University All-American football player.

Others on the program are Robert Lawson, a former Holy Cross football great; John F. Kent, a former member of C Troop of the New York State Police and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania; Timothy Lagrone, a graduate of McGill University.

Special Guest On Monday between 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. there will be a lecture by a representative of the Ulster County district attorney's office relative to the laws of the State of New York. In addition there will be movies shown of incidents relating to police work depicting occurrences with which local police departments may be called upon at any moment to cope with.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst

Some Change Suggested For Growth Objective

Q) "I am entering the Army in a week. I own Household Finance, Peter Hand Brewing, Budd Co., and Spartans Industries. I have $5,000 to invest. What do you think of Comsat, International Tel. & Tel., or some other communication stock? I am mainly looking for long-term growth."

A) I am very much pleased to hear from a young man in your situation. It certainly appears that you should aim for long-term growth, but to attain that objective, I suggest some realignment of your holdings.

Household Finance is a good stock and I advise you to retain it. Peter Hand Brewing, in my opinion, is a well managed company, but it does not operate in a growth field and I advise you to exchange it for Becton, Dickinson—a strong hospital supply stock.

Budd does not look too promising and I would switch it into Consolidated Foods. Spartans is a speculation on Chairman Bassing's ability to improve profit margins. I consider it a good speculation and I would hold it for the present. Comsat looks fully priced and I would prefer to see you buy International Telephone.

Q) "I am a housewife with two daughters, one married. I would like to take some cash from the savings bank to invest in stocks to help my family. I don't have much money and I know nothing at all about stocks. What would you advise?"

A) I'm going to advise you very strongly to leave your money in the savings bank. I heartily approve of your wanting to help your family, but I doubt if—in your position—you should try to do so through the medium of the stock market. No one should ever buy shares who cannot assume a definite measure of risk, since all stocks fluctuate to a greater or lesser degree. Your money belongs where it is. Interest may seem slow, but it is accumulative and the principal is always intact.

March 13-14

County Police Will Attend FBI School on Riots

Police officers of Ulster County will have an opportunity to attend a two-day police school session at the New York State Armory on Monday and Tuesday, March 13 and 14. The school, originally designed by Sheriff William B. Martin for instruction of deputy sheriffs, will be under the direction of the FBI. The hours will be from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Sheriff Martin said town constables, county police and auxiliary police are invited to attend along with any village police officers who can attend.

The school will feature the efficient enforcement of law relative to mob and riot control regulations.

Stress Cooperation While the school was originally planned for members of the sheriff's department, Sheriff Martin said all other police officials from the county would be welcome. In the event of any large demonstration, these officers would probably be called upon to assist. Instructions in mob or riot control such as will be given at the police school would then be of great importance in the cooperative effort of the sheriff's department and other police departments."

Resnick to Give Lagos Straight Position of U. S.

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., says he is telling Nigerians that the United States will "pick up its nartles and leave" if Nigeria cannot straighten itself out. The Ellenville Democrat is the first American congressman to visit Nigeria since the July 29 Army uprising that overturned the African nation's first military regime. Resnick, in Nigeria on a private visit, said the United States had given $250 million in aid and had sent about 1,000 advisors.

"How are we going to get these people out in case of trouble?" he asked.

Resnick arrived Friday for an eight-day tour. He planned to discuss Vietnam in speeches at the University of Nigeria, at Nsukka, in the east, and at the University of Ibadan, in the west.

"I'm going to give them the straight American position," said Resnick, 42, who last year won re-election to a second term.

The chairman of Nigeria's commission to help persons displaced by the country's turmoil, Sir Mobolaji Bank Anthony, asked Resnick to ask the United States "to come to our aid."

Recover Bodies Of Man, Daughter From Canal Water

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The bodies of a man and his 5-year-old daughter, apparent drowning victims when their auto plunged into the icy Black Rock Canal here, have been recovered.

The cause of the deaths of Roosevelt Miles, 32, of Buffalo, and his daughter, Sionette, were withheld pending the completion of an investigation.

Dr. Edmond Gicewicz, an Erie County medical examiner, said he was considering the issuance of certificates of murder and suicide.

"There are a few loose ends that need looking into, but from all appearance, it would seem the driver deliberately crashed the car through a fence and guard rail," Gicewicz said.

Police grapping teams found the bodies Saturday, a little more than 24 hours after the car barreled through the barriers and crashed into the canal. Authorities said witnesses told them the vehicle appeared to be traveling about 90 miles per hour.

Detectives said Miles' estranged wife, Terry, told them she refused to admit her husband Friday morning when he came to her front door. She said he then kicked in the front porch window, grabbed Sionette and sped away in the car with her.

The bodies were found about 10 feet from where the car crashed through the ice and in water about 20 feet deep.

Miles' address was 90 Landon St. Sionette lived at 208 Laurel St.

Woman Dies, Shot In Eye During Act

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A 31-year-old woman, who performed a precision shooting act with her husband, has died of injuries suffered when he accidentally shot her in the right eye last Wednesday at a sports show.

Mrs. Elaine Grav, 31, of Massapequa, N.Y., died Saturday at Memorial Hospital here, where she had been hospitalized in critical condition since the incident.

She was shot by her husband, Fred, 38, while performing before 400 spectators at the Great Northeastern Sports Show at the Syracuse War Memorial Auditorium.

Record Decrease In N.Y. State's Jan. Road Fatalities

Compared with Jan. 1966, there was a decided safety improvement on rural highways of New York State during the same month this year, statistics on fatal accidents compiled by the Department of Motor Vehicles reportedly indicates.

Last year 143 persons died in the rural areas of the state, including 22 pedestrians. This year the toll dropped to 116—19 of them pedestrians for a decrease of 18.9 per cent.

Overall deaths for all sections of the state were only three less than in January a year ago, however, a drop from 204 to 201, an increase of 59.1 per cent (from 22 to 35) was noted in urban communities while New York City accounted for a jump from 39 to 50, or 25.2 per cent.

The deaths were brought about by 17 accidents in January, three more than in the same month of 1966, with 101 of them occurring in rural areas, 30 in communities and 47 in New York City.

Pedestrian deaths in all areas went up 11.3 per cent from 53 to 59, with New York City accounting for 27, rural areas 19 and urban 13.

Snyder Offers Rosendale Water

At a meeting on Saturday, at Rosendale, Village Trustees Joseph LaFera and Joseph Reid held the second of a series of conferences with Andrew J. Snyder for discussion of the acquisition of sources of water supply and storage. During the lengthy discussion a plan was initiated for setting up a source of water supply for the Village that would produce over a million and a half gallons a day. This quantity of water would almost be sufficient to supply a city the size of Kingston, and would be the solution to the Village's water problems for many years to come.

Snyder said he made this offer because of his awareness of the Village's great need, in view of the dwindling of present supplies and in his own words, "I would like the Village to have it." The flow of water has been tested and measured to be in excess of 1200 gallons per minute with pumps running 24 hours a day. Snyder offered the use of a pump and Norman Kellar had also offered the use of a pump to further check the quantity of the flow.

Another meeting is to be set up at a future date for the purpose of establishing terms of the actual acquisition of the source by the Village and then to bring the plan before a public hearing when all the facts and figures have been fully prepared.

Both Trustees Reid and LaFera commended Snyder for his community interest and for giving the Village this opportunity to solve one of its biggest problems, namely a good supply of water.

Doing The Right Thing

BY ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

TEACHING CHILDREN TO "MIND THEIR MANNERS"

I am often asked how best to teach rules of etiquette to young children and whether there are special rules which they should be taught. The most important thing for all of us to realize is that etiquette applies to everyone, old or young, and that the best way to teach etiquette to children is the best way to teach anything—by consistency, firmness and example.

Children can scarcely be too young to be taught the rudiments of etiquette. Any child can be taught to be well behaved with no effort greater than patience and perseverance whereas they are acquired is a Herculean task.

Fair Play

Quite young children are able to understand the principles of justice, and they should be taught, even before they go to school, to "play fair," to respect each other's property and rights, to give credit to others, and not to take too much credit to themselves. They must be taught to share their playthings and to take good care of toys that belong to other children. A bright, observing child should never be encouraged to brag about his own achievements or to tell his mother how inferior other children are. If he wins a medal at school or is praised, the family naturally rejoices, and it is proper that they should, but a wise mother teaches her child that selfishness and conceit will get him nowhere.

"Because Everyone Else Does"

Children should be permitted to follow the customs of their community so that they do not differ too radically from the other children in the neighborhood. However, there are necessary and obvious qualifications to this advice. It is possible for children to be well brought up even though the community may seem to have accepted lower standards than the family's own. The phrase one hears so often from children, "Everyone else does it," is not sufficient excuse for lowering standards. Surely, to take an extreme example, no one could condone cheating at games or on examinations just "because everyone else does."

Of course, parents sometimes must make a decision that makes their children a little different in some particular from their friends. Certainly, there are times when children should be required to set an example for others to follow, rather than be just like all the rest. There is a certain element of risk, but there is also an element of discipline that is far more important.

The Parent's Attitude

The first outward sign of respect you can show your toddler is not to talk down to him. You must use simple words and sentences or he will not understand you at all, but "baby talk" is an insult to the intelligence of a normal child and does nothing to encourage him to increase his vocabulary or to speak as fluently as possible.

This treatment of your child as an individual carries through to your judgment of what he can and cannot do. I have found that most children are far more capable than their elders believe. If you expect good behavior, or assume that your child will react to a situation in a reasonable way, you will generally find that he will live up to your expectations. If, however, you start out by saying to Johnny, "I'll cut your meat for you, dear, you're too little," he will not be encouraged to make the effort to learn to do it himself. One word of warning, however. This can be overdone, and nothing will frustrate Johnny more than being required to do things that he simply is not capable of handling. To scold him for not being able to do up his snaps or buttons will cause him to rebel against all attempts to teach him to dress himself.

Study your child as an interesting person. Increase his responsibilities as he seems able to cope with them, reprove him when he falls short, and praise him when he takes a step forward. Include him in your conversation, correcting his mistakes and teaching him new words. Share as many family activities with him as you can. Don't laugh at his mistakes or ridicule him; rather, try to appreciate his developing sense of humor, and laugh with him. Encouragement, appreciation, and lots of love are the most essential elements in a baby's happy environment.

Dear Abby . . .

Does Friend Tip Waiter He Knows?

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Ours is a very odd problem and I hope you can help us with it. My wife and I have a friend who is a waiter in a place where we dine occasionally. We would like to know if it is proper to TIP this waiter in the usual manner when he waits on us? Because we are friends, do you think it might be considered poor taste? Thank you.

DEAR IN: When in doubt, offer a tip. You will know at once by your friend's reaction if he is genuinely offended. If he is, give in immediately and don't attempt to tip again.

Better to make the mistake of offering a tip when none is expected than failing to offer one when it is. (P.S. I would appreciate the opinions of waiters and waitresses who have been on the other end of this problem. I could be wrong).

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps my experience will be helpful to the young mother who was told it would be "bad luck" to name her baby after his brother who had died in infancy.

I was named for my brother who lived only 14 months, and I have been very lucky. Some years ago when I visited the cemetery where he is buried and saw "our" name on his tiny granite headstone with the words "Born December 17, 1890. Died February 6, 1892," a strange feeling came over me. I felt that I had lived the life he never lived.

Today I am 74 and it will not be long before I shall join the brother whose name I bear. And when we meet I shall salute him and say, "Well, Ted, I did the best I could for both of us."

GRATEFUL

DEAR ABBY: For the mother who wanted to give her new-born child the same name she had given to a previous child who had died in infancy.

I am sure it has been done by many who were eager to pass their name on to a member of the younger generation. One famous case comes to mind. The late Franklin Delano Roosevelt named a son "Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr." but that child did not survive. Later another son was born, and he was given that name.

Irish Coffee Shamrock for St. Patty's

IRISH COFFEE DESSERT

Everyone knows that the shamrock blooms on St. Patrick's Day. And what could be more appropriate for the holiday than a Shamrock Dessert flavored with a favorite Gaelic beverage?

We're speaking, of course, about Irish Coffee. Here we find it in a gelatin mold, layered with whipped cream and served with demitasse.

Irish Coffee Shamrock Dessert

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin, divided *
1/2 cup cold water
3 cups hot, strong coffee beverage
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons Irish whiskey
2 tablespoons cold water
1/2 cup whipping cream
1 tablespoon sugar

Soften 1 1/2 envelopes (1 1/2 tablespoons) gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water. Add hot coffee and 1/2 cup sugar. Stir until gelatin and sugar dissolve. Add whiskey. Mix well. Pour half this mixture into 4-cup shamrock mold. Chill until firm. Soften remaining 1/2 table-spoon gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water. Dissolve over hot water. Whip cream until it mounds softly. Add 1 tablespoon sugar slowly while whipping. Add dissolved gelatin slowly while whipping. Spoon whipped cream mixture on top of layer in mold. Chill until set. Spoon remaining coffee mixture on top of cream mixture. Chill until set. Unmold. One mold makes 6 servings.

Ellenville Defeats Marlboro, 66-65, in Overtime Tilt

Don Smith Is Named PHS Baseball Coach

Don Smith, who last fall was appointed varsity football coach at Poughkeepsie High, has been named coach of the varsity baseball team, effective immediately.

Smith, junior varsity baseball coach for the past six years, succeeds Sam J. Kallioch, who is now doing other duties in the field of health.

Peter Capell, a teacher in the high school, has been named to succeed Smith as JV coach. In making the appointment, the Poughkeepsie School Board of Education also reappointed George Strba, tennis coach; Stanley Kern, track coach and Carlton VanWagner, golf coach. Smith, a graduate of Wappingers High School and Springfield College, is vice president of

Redeemer Tops Fair Street Club

Bruce Statler's 14 points and 12 by Mark Snyder led Redeemer Lutheran to a 31-22 victory over Fair St. Reformed in a YMCA Junior Church League semi-final playoff tilt.

The winners, who had suffered a pair of regular season losses to Fair St., trailed by a 13-10 margin at the half but rallied in the third and fourth periods.

Redeemer will meet unbeaten St. George Saturday for the playoff championship.

Scores: Fair Street (22) — Palen 3, Terwillinger 2, Roth 2, Stevenson 10, Grover 4, Yapple 1. Redeemer Lutheran (31) — Snyder 12, Statler 14, M. Anderson 5, S. Anderson, Holmquist, Schline, Fox, Robinson, Phillips, Lenzi, Decker, Berryman.

Winners Gain Final Round In Sectionals

Nate Shurter's basket with five seconds of the overtime period remaining gave Ellenville a 66-65 win over Marlboro Saturday at the Valley Central School, eliminating the UCAI champions from the Section Nine Class C tournament.

Ellenville will play Highland Falls, a 65-50 winner over Wallkill for the championship Saturday, 7 o'clock, at the New Paltz State gym.

Marlboro, which closed its season with a nifty 17-2 record, played the DUSO Village champions on even terms most of the way.

With less than a minute of the overtime period left, Howard Baker of the Dukes made one of two free throw attempts to give his club a 65-64 lead.

Ellenville worked for a shot and the strategy worked as Shurter threw in the clincher. The Dukes couldn't attempt anything after the winning bucket.

Richie Faulk, closing his high school career as the second leading scorer in the history of the school, tallied 29 points to lead the Dukes. High jumping Fred Monroe finished with 11.

Coach Ed Sagares's cagers lost only to Valley Central during the regular season and Saturday's setback was their second.

When we designed this beauty, we kept a few ugly things in mind.

This is a brand-new Volkswagen Fastback Sedan with a brand-new bump in the right rear fender. (It's one of the ugly things we had in mind when we made this car.) Your Volkswagen dealer can make it well again by unscrewing just ten bolts and removing the fender. (A new one costs about $37.00*.)

Underneath the hood is a brand-new motor. If it ever stops acting like it's brand-new and starts acting ugly, it's easy to cope with. (A VW motor can be taken out and put back in again in 90 minutes.)

On the bottom of our Fastback is a shiny new sealed bottom. When there's ugly weather, or mucky roads, or salty snows, or bumpy bumps, it protects the inside of your car from all the horrible things that happen outside.

With a VW, you may find some of the things you're used to being ugly, won't be ugly any more.

For instance, gasoline mileage. (You'll get about 27 miles to the gallon with a Fastback.) The tires will last about 35,000 miles.

The engine won't freeze up in the wintertime or boil over in the summer. (Our new beauty has the same air cooled engine as the bug, only faster.) It's also a bit bigger.

The Fastback has a little more room for people than the bug. And a lot more room for luggage. (It's got a trunk in the front of the car, and one in the back.)

It also costs a little more. $2,143†.

But the nice thing is, when you get a new Fastback, you get a new perspective. It may end up making all the ugly things seem almost beautiful.

Beacon Scores, Roosevelt Bows

Beacon, the DCSL championship team, advanced but second place Roosevelt was eliminated in Section One Class A games Saturday at Wappingers High.

The Beaconites disposed of Rye, 73-61, in the second game after Roosevelt had been beaten, 92-80, by Peekskill in the opener, despite a 46-point effort by Rich Rinaldi of the Presidents.

Beacon (17-2) advances to the County Center in White Plains for a second round game Tuesday, 4:30, against the winner of the Sleepy Hollow-Westlake game.

Gary McCray was the whole show for Beacon. He not only posted 23 points but fed his teammates for baskets and did a solid job on defense. Nate Milligan led the five-time DCSL champions with 24 markers.

Rinaldi was almost a one-man team for Roosevelt. He accounted for 15 field goals and 16 foul shots in breaking the school scoring record. Greg Kohls, the high scoring FDR guard, experienced an off night and was limited to six points.

RFK Considered State Leader by National Head

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey says Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is the leader of the Democratic party in New York State.

Bailey made the statement Sunday night at a news conference preceding a $500-a-plate fund-raising dinner of the state party at the Plaza Hotel. The party's state committee had a $250,000 deficit.

Bailey said Kennedy will pick the candidate to run against Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits if he seeks re-election next year. There has been talk of Javits as GOP candidate for vice president.

Kennedy — who was elected U.S. senator from New York in 1964, giving up his Massachusetts voting address and his Virginia residence — has been considered the most powerful figure in his party in the state for a considerable time. But he never has publicly accepted the leadership.

In a departure from custom, there were no formal speeches at the dinner.

Reports Buildup Of Viet Forces About Completed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has just about completed its buildup of infantry-type forces in South Vietnam, military officials said today.

They said these forces should be sufficient to neutralize Communist main force units.

Further increases in U.S. arms strength in Vietnam will be concentrated in support and combat support elements, they said.

These will include more artillery to back up the infantry, more helicopter companies, more ground transportation outfits, more supply handling units and a wide variety of roundout detachments.

The helicopter fleet, key to U.S. ground troops ability to strike far and wide, will go from the present level of about 2,000 choppers to perhaps 3,200.

The pace of the over-all U.S. buildup has slowed as the leveling process sets in.

Crowd Ignores Funeral Cortège

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Tehran's bazaar ignored Dr. Mohammed Mossadeq, the emotional nationalist who set its mobs aflame 16 years ago, as his body was taken Sunday to temporary burial.

The funeral cortège of the dictatorial former premier who seized Iran's oil fields from the British moved through the capital almost without notice. Crowds in the bazaar were shopping for the Persian new year.

Relatives and a few tearful friends in half a dozen cars followed an ambulance carrying Mossadeq's body to Ahmehdabad, a village he had owned 60 miles north of Tehran. He had left instructions for his body to be buried later next to his mother's grave in Najaf, a Shiite Moslem city in neighboring Iraq.

Educators Named To State Group

NEW YORK (AP) — Five prominent educators have been named to a select committee to study how New York State can preserve the "strength and vitality" of private and independent institutions and at the same time keep them free.

The committee includes McGee Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation; Dr. James B. Conant, educator; Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University; the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame; and Dr. Abram L. Sachar, president of Brandeis University.

The committee was named over the weekend by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the Board of Regents.

Artery Hardening Diagnosed in Mao

BERLIN (AP) — An East German doctor who recently returned home after 30 years in China says he suspects Mao Tse-tung is suffering from hardening of the arteries of the brain.

Dr. Eric Bonde-Lee 71, said this would explain the 73-year-old Chinese Communist chairman's "uncontrolled" behavior. He said Mao had unleashed the Red Guards to prove to his old comrades in arms that he was powerful even without them.

The internist was interviewed in an East Berlin hospital room where he is recovering from an abdominal operation. He said the need for the operation forced him to leave Shanghai in December. His patients, there, he said, included families of influential Communists, but he did not name them.

Plan Coed Dormitory

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (AP) — A $1.8-million dormitory planned at Middlebury College would have one wing for men students and another for women with a central lounge and study area dividing the two.

'Rabbit Hill' Is Delightful Story

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It is probable that large numbers of the very young discovered Sunday that real animals are more amusing and endearing when photographed live than crudely drawn cartoons fitted out with ascribed comedy voices.

The revelation came with NBC's "Rabbit Hill," an hour program in which Burl Ives read an adaptation of a children's book by Robert Lawson, illustrated by some patient cinematographers.

Well-Behaved Rabbit
Star of the show was George, a very well behaved rabbit. He and his parents and friends—a little buck deer, field mice, a red fox, a porcupine and a skunk who was the comedian—all are very curious about the new human inhabitants of their own preserve, Rabbit Hill.

The story about gentle animals and nice people was thoroughly delightful. There was just enough plot to make things exciting — George was chased by a fearsome sheepdog and he was hit by a car, but the nice people nursed him back to health.

The color photograph — all made outdoors — was somewhat erratic. But everything else combined to make a children's program well worth an annual repeat.

Documentaries producer Robert Drew recently said that a valid test for a television program is to experiment with sight and sound.

"If you turn off the sound and the pictures alone make some sense," he said, "then it is a legitimate television show. If you can shut your eyes and not miss anything important, then it's a radio program."

By his yardstick, the original play, "Good Day," on Sunday's "experiment in television" on NBC was essentially radio. It consisted of two characters in long conversations with practically no action at all.

But Emanuel Peluso's drama was a symbolic and sometimes terrible demonstration of stripping away self-delusion. It had power and considerable awkwardness. It could have been trimmed down considerably in length and made more effective.

Recommended tonight: "Brigadoon," ABC, 8:30-10 p.m. EST. Repeat of the musical play: "Mark Twain Tonight," CBS, 9:30-11, Hal Holbrook in some dramatic readings from the works of the American author.

Remember Slavery

But to many of the nation's 22 million Negroes, humility in the face of white attack takes on unsavory overtones. They are constantly reminded by McKissick and others of the kind of crawling their grandfathers and great-grandfathers had to do in the days of slavery, when "unpity" Negroes were likely to be lynched.

This distrust of white intentions, plus a firm conviction that Powell, whatever his shortcomings, is the victim of a double standard of morality, ran throughout the speeches that drew the loudest applause at the rally.

It appears futile for whites to argue that Powell is more dedicated to his own success than the well being of Harlem. Some Negroes do say so to each other, and they might desert Powell for a political opponent who could match his political flair.

The fog, accompanied by light snow, also disrupted operations at the Rochester-Monroe County Airport to a lesser extent during the evening before the visibility improved.
